

Submit an Insurance Application Use Case

Basic Course:

The system displays the insurance application interface. The user enters the requested information into the corresponding text boxes. The user accepts any terms and agreements using check boxes. The user submits the insurance application using the submit button. The system sends the information to the central database. The system sends the user an email confirming the insurance application was submitted. The system displays the insurance application status page.

Alternate Courses:

User submits information that is empty or invalid: The system returns to the insurance application interface and marks the text boxes containing empty/invalid information.

User submits information already contained in the central database: The system notifies the user that the entered information is already recognized. The system will display the user login interface.
